Superintendent of Schools' Report

To the School Committee of Searsport:

Gentlemen:

I have the honor of presenting herewith the annual report of the schools of this town for the year, 1920-1921.

In submitting this, my third annual report of the condition and progress of the schools of Searsport, I am deeply impressed with the fact that we have, in the great work of education which is before us, "a charge to keep," which is second to none. The work of our public schools determine in a very large measure the moral, intellectual, physical and industrial welfare of our boys and girls. It calls for large appropriations of money to carry on this great work of weaving together the moral, physical, intellectual and industrial fibre into the warp and woof of our great democracy. It behooves every tax payer to acquaint himself and herself with the working details of this important department of civic welfare and for the success of which they all have to contribute.

We are experiencing a rapid growth in our school system and it is likely to expand within the next few years beyond our immediate housing capacity. In fact, some of our rooms are taxed beyond their capacity now. Our school census shows that within the past three years we have made a gain of over 30%. Of this number it is safe to say that at least 20% of the pupils are in the schools. Naturally, this is largely the cause for the overdraft in the textbook and supply accounts which you will find in another part of this report.

Because of this increase in attendance we have been obliged to purchase new furniture to provide enough seats and chairs for our needs. Several years ago some of the very old furniture was replaced with new. We have been obliged to salvage some of this old material and use it over again. We have hardly a school-room but what has from two to three different kinds of seats. We should adopt a policy of equipping a room with new furniture each year until we have completed this work.

During this past year we have added a new heating and ventilating system to the Nichols school building. We now have a modern one-room rural school building with proper heat and ventilation. With new seats, a chemical toilet and a drinking fountain which could be supplied at a very reasonable expense we could have a MODEL of which you could be justly proud. I doubt if one could be found to equal it in this county. It is well within our grasp and I am extremely anxious that we should enjoy that satisfaction besides giving to our boys and girls, who attend this school, the pleasure and profit which is justly theirs.

STATE COURSE OF STUDY

The State Course of Study is now in force in our schools. We find however that the work we have been doing does not conform with the State requirements as expressed in this course. In the first place our system has nine grades, the State course calls for eight grades. I would recommend to the board the readjustment of our grade system that the work of the elementary grades may conform with the work of other systems in this State. Our pupils going to other systems make the change at a great disadvantage.

FREE HIGH SCHOOL

The constant growth of our high school is very encouraging. The fine atmosphere and the splendid spirit which prevails in the school demonstrates without argument that it was a wise step not to discontinue this very essential department of our school work. Out of the thirty-three who are attending school the number is very small who would have attended school outside of the community. The expense in board, tuition and travel can not be estimated. Many would have dropped out of school altogether at the close of their elementary course. This would have been an irreparable loss to our young people. We can further safeguard their interests by appropriating enough money to insure the continuance of a strong teaching force in the school that these boys and girls may feel that it is profitable for them to continue their work beyond the elementary grades.

The period of reconstruction is before us. It is only through education that a satisfactory reconstruction can be attained. Thus far education has stood the test but the demands are to be greater than ever before. If it continues to function properly we must not be unmindful of its needs. The deplorable conditions which exist in many of the European countries today makes the task even greater. The great and serious task of world leadership rests with America. Our specific job is to create a leadership that will be a worthy product of American Democracy.

Respectfully submitted,

EDWARD E. RODERICK,

Supt. of Schools.

To Mr. Edward E. Roderick, Superintendent:

The School Committee and The Citizens of Searsport, I respectfully submit the following report of the High School:

The High School, this year, numbers thirty-four pupils, twelve more than last year. They have been regular in attendance and their work has been generally satisfactory. We feel to congratulate them on the excellent school spirit they have shown, and we highly appreciate their ever ready and earnest efforts to meet the requirements of the teachers.

Tardiness is still too prevalent in all the rooms of the Union building, to which I call the attention of the parents, and request their further aid and co-operation to eliminate this fault, which is a great hindrance to a child's progress in his school work and causes interruption of the necessary quiet of the school-room.

The Freshman class has seventeen members, a very promising class, and we earnestly hope they will all complete the course and receive their diplomas—the final gift of the school. The co-operation of the parents to this end is emphatically urged. Too often it had been the case that the children of our town are allowed to leave school before they have reached the ninth grade, or after the first year in High School. So much is expected of young men and women in the business world today, that one's progress is sadly hindered without a High School training, at least.

A great need of our school is new desks and seats; owing to the increase in number of pupils, there are not enough suitable seats in the laboratory for the largest classes; and the seats and desks in the main room have been there many years and are now badly broken and there are not enough for comfortable seating.

The standard of our High School could be improved if the work in the grades below could be made more thorough. I think there should be but two grades in the grammar room instead of three, which would afford sufficient time for effective work in preparation for High School subjects. Much more drill should be given in reading, penmanship and arithmetic. It is difficult to make children appreciate literature who cannot read with ease and understanding. I have had a daily lesson in penmanship for two terms—a much needed drill—yet rapid and legible handwriting should be acquired before one enters High School. The work in arithmetic should be more systematic and definite. The children should not be dependent on rules and formulas, they should be taught to think and reason out their mathematical problems; a child who cannot do this will make slow progress in commercial arithmetic, algebra and geometry in the High School.

Mr. Payson Smith, former State Superintendent of the schools of Maine, in a recent address to the Teachers' Club of Boston, said: "Children fail to succeed in High School because often they are ignorant of the fundamental operations of arithmetic. The education of the child should be brought down to the big fundamentals, reading, writing and arithmetic."

Strengthening the grades along these lines will do much for the future success of the High School.

Before closing this report, I desire to express my appreciation of the work of Miss E. Frances Abbott of Belfast, who has assisted me during the year, and who has proved a pleasing and capable assistant.

LILLIAN G. RUNNELLS,

Principal.
